Centre for
Smart Modern Construction

On behalf of the CIB Board the CIB Student Chapter Committee has approved the establishment of a new CIB Student Chapter at Western Sydney University – Centre for Smart Modern Construction.

Introduction

In 2014, the Western Sydney University (WSU) celebrated its 25th anniversary as a statutory institution. The University acknowledges over 200 cumulative years of bringing knowledge to life in Greater Western Sydney from their heritage and member institutions. One of the largest employers with a large footprint across one of Australia's most dynamic population and business regions, WSU celebrates a present reminiscent with the riches of the past and the promises of the future.

Objectives

The objectives of the Student Chapter are:

- To inspire the development of a research culture among its members and build awareness of research significance for construction students
- To encourage new areas of research and academic resources among members and ensure the next generation of graduates are future-ready
- To provide a medium for disseminating, sharing and exchanging ideas, skills and experience within the Student Chapter and towards other CIB Student Chapters
- To enable joint research, industry collaboration and academic exchange with the global research community

Personal Statement Priyadarshini Das

Being a PhD student at the Centre for Smart Modern Construction of Western Sydney University and having worked for several years in the construction industry, I am well aware that the future of the built environment is in highly collaborative global research and exchange and the CIB Student Chapter gives us a splendid opportunity to make that possible.
